

Story of Kocher Park

In 2000, Keith Kocher and Joan McCarty donated land along Fishing Creek, just north of Lightstreet, to the Columbia County Conservation District in order to establish Frank W. Kocher Memorial Park, a public, wheelchair accessible nature park. The Conservation District and Fishing Creek Watershed Association members enhance wildlife habitat and maintain park grounds thanks to many dedicated volunteers, private donations and public grant funds. Adjacent land has been donated or purchased over the years. Today, Kocher Park offers visitors over 7 acres of streamside property to enjoy. Kocher Park is a great place to bird, fish, walk, or just relax. We hope you have a wonderful creek-side nature experience!

About Us

Fishing Creek Watershed Association members are working together for a better environment. We accomplish our goals through partnerships with local, state, and federal agencies, private landowners, educational institutions, business and industry, and other groups with similar interests and goals.

The mission of the Conservation District is to lead the citizens of Columbia County in sustainable use of our shared agricultural and natural resources through partnerships, education, and technical assistance, in order to assure the best quality of life for future generations.
